The Resumption of the Mackey Election Contest.

Web of Words and a Lost Quorum-A Proposition for a Conterence Throws the House into Another Uproar-Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, May 26 .- In the house Mr. Calkins, of Indiana, called up the contested celection case of Mackey vs. Dibble, against that unless he took his seat the sergeant-atelection case of Mackey vs. Dibble, against which Mr. Blackburn, of Kentucky, raised the question of consideration. Dilatory motions were submitted by Messrs. Converse, of Ohio; Carlisle, Kentucky, and Randall, of Pennsylvania; and the house proceeded to vote on the question of adjourning until Tuesday next. The vote resulted—yeas 2, nays 138. No quorum and a call of the house was ordered. After a number of dilatory motions were submitted by Messrs. Converse, of Ohio; Carlisle, Kentucky, and Randall, of the desired to repel any intimation that he was proceeding in violation of any laws of the house. A stormy scene ensued on the republican side, and many of the members disapproved of the acceptance of the resolution, or of any proposition looking to a compromise. Scores of members were talking at once, and the speaker's gavel was in constant use. Finally, was ordered. After a number of dilatory motions, the monotony of the proceedings was broken in upon by Mr. Moore, of Tennessee, rising to a parliament-inquiry, said that as it reduced it to writing, and would ask it to be read at the clerk's desk. To this Mr. Kendall and Mr. Kenna objected, and Mr. Moore proceeded to read it himself, Mr. Randall insisting that he should only present the point of h's inquiry. "I respectfully inquire," began Mr. Moore, "whether the minority of this house, most of whom were lately in rebellion spains! the government." here he was interagainst the government," here he was inter-rupted with shouts of "order" from the demo-cratic side, and the remainder of his in-quiry was drowned in the uproar. It was, however, to the effect whether such minority, to which the unexampled generosity of the government had accorded every privilege of citizenship, had the right to block the wheels of legislation, because men of the democratic party were occupying seats by methods which the majority decided to investigate.

Mr. Randall (indignantly)—We are citizens of the common country, and have as much right here as the gentleman from Tennessee.

Mr. Marsh, of Illinois, (excitedly)—Has the gentleman the right to answer that parliamentary inonity?

Mr. Randall—It was no parliame stary inquiry. It was an aspersion on certain mem-bers of this house on account of their past con Mr. Marsh—It was an inquiry addressed to Mr. Randall, (to Mr. Moore)—The gentleman had better look at home before he throws stones elsewhere.

Mr. Marsh—What right has the gentleman

Mr. Marsh—What right has the gentleman to assume to answer a parliamentary question which was addressed to the chair.

Mr. Randail—I have every right that belongs to a representative and the man.

Mr. Marsh—That is all you have and that you have exceeded when you undertake to assert the functions of speaker.

Mr. Randail—I have asserted nothing except the functions of a man, and that I will do in the face of this house as often as I see fit.

Throughout this colloquy the house was in a state of confusion, and it was some time before the repeated rapping of the speaker's gavel had the effect of restoring any degree of order. When quiet had been obtained the speaker stated that neither the gentleman from Illinois nor the gentleman from Pennsylvania were in order. sylvania were in order. Mr. Randall (resuming his seat)—I am quite ware of that.

Mr. Marsh—I was asking a parliamentary inquiry, and asking that I think was in order.

The speaker—The chair thinks that the gentleman was not in order in presenting that inquiry.

Mr. Marsh—I now rise to a parliamentary inquiry, and address it to the chair.

"The gentleman from Tennessee is an old rebel," interpolated Mr. Cox, of New York.

Mr. Moore—I propounded a parliamentary the right to answer, and the question I propose to the chair is whether he was in order? Whether he is authorized in the place of the chair to answer a parliamentary inquiry? I thought it was in order when I made it before fore.

The Speaker—The chair thinks if the gentleman had confined himself to the inquiry, he would have been in order, but he proceeded to address his remarks to the house, and to the gentleman from Pennsylvania, and for that reason being responded to in the same

Mr. Marsh—I only did so after I was interrupted by the gentleman from Pennsylvania.
Mr. Randall—One word—Mr. Calkins, (good naturedly). A soft answer turneth away wrath, a grievous one stireth anger.

Mr. Miller, of Pennsylvania—That is not all. We want to give the people over there something a good deal better than that.

Mr. Miller's remarks were lost in the confusion which his entry into the discussion gave rise to and in the confusion. fusion which his entry into the discussion gave rise to, and in the continuous rapping of the speaker's gavel. When he had resumed his seat, the speaker said that he allowed the members to indulge in some merriment whenever it did not destroy the dignity of the house, but the members must not violate the rules wilfully and bring the house into disgrace. The chair felt bound to state that without any reference to any indistate that, without any reference to any individual. [Applause on the democratic side.]

After some further debate the matter went

It was after a conference with gentlemen of prominence on the otherside that he had been requested by a gentleman on his side to submit a proposition which, even if it should not itself be accepted, would at least answer the purpose of bringing the two sides together, to an understanding which should be satisfactory to both. The best interests of legislation required an adjustment of the pending question, and he was sure no gentleman on the other side would refuse to give the democratic side the credit of having tory to both. The best interests of legislation required an adjustment of the pending question, and he was sure no gentleman on the other side would refuse to give the democratic side the credit of having inaugurated a movement which looked to the unhinging of the deadlock. He then offered a resolution providing for a special committee of five members to inquire into the authenticity and integrity of all the affidavits, the returns and evidence of whatever character produced in the case of Mackey vs. O'Conner, and to inquire into all the deterioration, destructions, loss or mutilation of the original notes of the same, or any transcript of such notes, what, where and by whom such alterations were made or caused to be made. Several amendments were of-fered. Without action on the bill or amend-ments the senate, at 4:40 p. m., adjourned till Monday.

THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS.

Washington, May 26.—The republican cau-cus committee having reached no conclusion at the meeting which was held last night, the question, "How long is the deadlock to continue?" was heard on all sides of the house of representatives to-day. The committee on rules held a secret session this morning, and while the members are disposed to say nothing as to what was considered, it has been learned that the question under discussion was in regard to the existing deadlock, the members of both parties taking active parameters.

bers was held subsequent to the adjournment of the committee on rules, at which represent Mr. Moore—I propounded a parliamentary inquiry, and before the speaker was permitted to answer the ex-speaker of the house assumed the conference the whole subject was discussed, particular attention being given to the ques-tion as to how far the party could discreetly proceed with the introduction of dilatory motions in order to prevent a con-sideration of the Mackey vs Dibble contested election case. It was unan-imously agreed that the minority would be justified in continuing its present course indefinitely; that it was injustice to endeavor to force action upon a case in dis-pute; that the only desire of the minority was hat the case should be properly investigated, and unless that could be obtained the reand unless that could be obtained the re-sponsibility rested alone with the majority. Shortly after 3 o'clock the conference committee agreed upon a resolution propos-ing a special committee of five members be appointed by the chair to enquire into the authority and validity of the affidavits sub-mitted up the contested case of Markey vs. mitted in the contested case of Mackey vs. O'Conner. Representative Blackburn was directed by the conference committee to submit the same to the house, and ask that it be rereived by the majority in the same spirit of airness by which it is intended by the memers of the minority.

Immediately after the adjournment of the ouse to-day, a caucus of the republic a tembers was held in the hall of the house of epresentatives. There was an exceptionally arge attendance. Previous to the caucus number of republicans were disposed to doubt the expediency of the policy which the party had adopted, and several intimated that they were not in favor of continuing the existing status, in short that the time come for a compromise. After the members of the election committee had been heard in explanation and vindication of their action, Presbyteriaus and its Reception by the Southern Assembly—The Discussion of the Park Controversy—Synod Sustained.

It was after 11 o'clock on the night before when the assembly adjourned, and consequently the members were somewhat tardy yesterday morning but they kept dropping in, one by one, during the hour for prayer, and by the time when the case of the negro preacher was again broached, the church was completely full. The call of the roll showed completely full. The call of the roll showed a decided leaning for sustaining the validity of Park's ordination. The interest was brought to its climax by the speech of Major Kirkpatrick, of Virginia, who sustained the decision of the synod of Memphis. He was followed by Dr. Girardeau, whose speech was listened to with breathless interest. When the vote was announced. 81 yeas to 42 nays, it was fully anticipated. In the evening session the telegram of greeting from the Springfield assembly was read, with much satisfaction, but the reading of the accompanying dispatch relating to the exception of expressions regarding "loyalty" served to dampen the effect of the announcement. An awkward feeling overspread the assembly which was only relieved by the reference of assembly was read, with much satisfaction, but the reading of the accompanying dispatch relating to the exception of expressions regarding "loyalty" served to dampen the effect of the announcement. An awkward feeling overspread the assembly which was only relieved by the reference of the papers to the committee on foreign correspondence. The reply is intended to make a marky matter elegater if indeed the north a murky matter clearer, if, indeed, the northern assembly desires it to be any clearer. Fraternal greetings were received from the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, and lusive until ratified by congress.

WAREHOUSING BONDS.

In the senate, Mr. Bayard reported, from Outst Episcopal church, south, and a suitable response was returned.

Dr. Girardeau, from the committee on foreign spirits bill. He said the amended bill now reported contained modifications which had been prepared in conjunction with the treasury department, relating to bonds to be given for an extended warehousing period, and providing warehousing regulations as to spirits made from grapes, apples and peaches. Upon Mr. Bayard's suggestion the measure was ordered printed as a substitute for the house bill on the subject. He added that he would probably call it up early next week. An order was made for adjournment from to-day till Monday.

The senate bill to reimburse the Creek orphan tund was further considered, but finally phan fund was further considered, but finally when over without action upon the expiration of the morning hour. The senate bill to of W. S. Turner, from the synde of Georgia. reported, through Rev. E. E. Gordon, its readiness to report. The commission consists of twenty-seven members. The appeal grew out of a case in the Central Presbyterian church of Atlanta, Central Presbyterian church of Atlanta, in which the clerk to the session permitted one of the witnesses to overlook and revise his testimony. The case went from the presbytery to the synod, thence to this body. The commission ruled that the clerk erred in allowing the witness to revise his evidence, as there was a proper tribunal before whom the witness might have gone, but as no harm resulted toward the rights of any one, there was no need of action on that point; in regard to the case itself it was referred back to the care of the synod. On motion of Dr.

regard to the case itself it was referred back to the care of the synod. On motion of Dr. Lefevre, the report was approved. Dr. J. H. Nall read the report of the committee on theological seminaries, which exhibited gratification with the reports. In this connection the following resolutions were offered by Rev. J. R. Jacobs, of Corpus Christi, Texas, and unanimously adopted by the assembly:

"In view of the alarming fact that while within the history of our church never have there been so many fields of labor earnestly, but vainly, seeking ministers, there appears to be a marked diminution of the increase of the number of our candidates for the minis-try. Be it resolved,

trv. Be it resolved,

1. That this sad and alarming truth be hereby solemnly brought to the serious attention of our churches; that they may be led to call more earnestly and continually upon God, who, as Lord of the harvest, can alone with authority and power, lend efficient aid in this our hour of need; that he raise up and qualify among us many laborers whom he will own and bless.

2. That the church be urged to contribute liberally of her means for the education of our candidates for the ministry

3. That the attention of Christian parents be directed to the especial propriety of bringing at this

3. That the attention of Christian parents be directed to the especial propriety of bringing at this juncture their pious sons before the throne of Divine grace, and there tendering them unto the Lord for his peculiar service.

4. That our mint-ters be recommended to present earnestly and faithfully this general subject before their several charges, thus laying before the younger men and middle aged in our church the urgent necessity for an increase of laborers among us.

This was followed by the report of the committee on the Revised Directory for Worship. It was recommended that a committee should be appointed, whose duty it shall be to report to the assembly of 1883, to whom shall be referred all criticism upon the work. The committee was instructed to prepare the work with a view to its final adoption by the assembly.

THE PARK CASE.

The business on the table being thus disposed of, the unfinished business was the consideration of the Park case, the pending question being the average of paints by the consideration of the Park case. tion being the expressions of opinion by the members on call of the roll. Mr. E. P. Palmer regarded it as a question of conserving law on the one hand and of policy on the other. I like that policy which is intended to Christianize the colored people. There is no danger from the church in admitting the claims of Mr. Park. The presbytery of Mem-phis violated the law in ordaining him, but being ordained, the act is a finality.
have no half way ordination. Mr. have no half way ordination. Mr. G. G. Duffee said the only path of safety was the path of duty. The question before us is deeper than the color of Sam Park's skin— the ordination of our ministers is at stake. There is no fear, as was indicated by my disinguished brother from South Carolina, that the church would be Africanized. If then, leaving a man of color in the possess on of his rights will Africanize the church then let be Africanized. Mr. J. J. Johnson did not think it a politiminister. We are capable of self-protection and when the danger comes we can meet it.

Mr. C. W. Lane, of Athens, said that all desire the best interests of our colored brethren, sire the best interests of our colored brethren, and some of the best practical workers for them are opposed to the right of Park to vote. The negro, though living with us, is as essentially in this foreign field as any of the people to whom we send missionaries. Dr. Stacey pointed out that discrimination would affect the colored church as well as the colored minister, so it would bring up the question, "what is the status of the colored church?" To be a minister he must belong to the chnrch. If Park is a minister he must be in church connecister he must belong to the chnrch. If Park is a minister he must be in church connection. With what church? Suppose he were to commit a disciplinable offense, who would try him? He should be tried by the body of which he is a member. Mr. W. A. Carter suggested that to put a negro where God didn't intend to put him, would be to do him an injury. It would burden the Memphis presbytery. Mr. B. F. Wilcox said we had nothing to do with social equality, but it will be very gingerly in the assembly to refuse to sustain the synod.

Rev. E. C. Gordon said: "In my judgment there are two points material to the case:

1.! Did the presbytery do this thing? 2. Whatev it did, was it valid? Now then, if the precent tery ordained Mr. Park in a church yet to be formed, as they allege by counsel it was their intention to do, then I am clear that their intention to that their action in any case puts Mr. Park out of our church, and the judgment of the synod should be reversed. But if they did not, but ordained Mr. Park under the usual discretionary power which the book gives them, then Mr. Park's present status turns on the question. Was the action of presbytery as thus construed invalid or only irregular? If inva-should be confirmed. Rev. R. McIlwaine was clearly of opinion that the synod ought to be sustained. There is a conflict between constitution and assem-bly. Park should have all the rights. If come when prejudice must be put under our feet. We must march up in a different spirit. Major Kirkpatrick—If the ordination was irregular it was the abuse of its discretion by nection with us. The option was given them to remain or be thenceforward "ecclesiastically reported." The action of 1869 gave them the right to be represented by their pastors. Dr. Girandeau—I have never ceased to feel for the colored people the best of feeling Going home from prison after the war, th first application I received to preach was from my old colored congregation. They received me demonstratively. They asked for cquarights in the session. I asked them whether they should sit upon the admission of a white lady. They said they would. I then asked them if a white lady was to be disciplined if they would claim the right to s.t. They said they would. Then I said: "Carry my fare well to my old flock. Ichabod—your glory is departed." They subsequently retracted this position and I preached for them until 1874

The moderator announced that he had an important paper which he desired to lay before

Sir William Harcourt, home secretary, replying to Mr. Gorst, conservative member for Chatham, stated that the government had no intention of taking steps respecting the recent speech of Michael Davitt at Manchester.

Mr. Trevelyan, chief secretary for Ireretary, stated that the ultimatum livered to Mahmoud Baranrdi the presbytery. The only evidence of a bar gain is drawn from the letter of Dr. Boggs, and is not from the records. Not even a juror is allowed, after he is discharged, to give his as allowed, after he is discharged, to give his recollection of the evidence. Mr. Dillon said he was willing to give a pledge that no violence would result if huts were allowed to be erected so as to save the evicted persons from going to the work house. Mr. Trevelyan said that the evicted numbered 215 families. Hus could be erected for their shelter, but he said that intimidation would be sternly inflicted. The house then adjourned.

NASHVILLE, May 26.—In the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, yesterday, the report of the committee on revisal, besides submitting a recommendation that the word "south" be eliminated from the name of the church, proposed to change the name from Methodist Episcopal to Episcopal Methodist. Judge Whitworth favored the change because the question on which separation was based was dead, and he thought if the name was changed 400,000 negroes in the south would join the church, but would not do it as long as it retained its present name. Dr. W. R. Brown, of Cahfornia, wanted the name changed because it church, is no longer applicable; if it was

P. A. Peterson, of Virginia, said they would have to discard sentiment and look at facts. The suffix "south" would have never been added to our name but to distinguish it from the M. E. church. It is our commission to go into the whole world. This is the "great commission." He said we are too much limited; our success demands this change.

W. W. Bennett, of Virginia, spoke strongly against the change, saying it was a surrender.

Anson West, of Alabama, said he thought that there were not much saritefier on the

THE ADJOURNMENT.

Bishop McTyeire suggested that the hour of adjournment was at hand. The session had been a very harmonious one, and suggested that it be closed with devotional exercises.

He lined out as a closing hymn that song of Charles Wesley's, beginning:

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. DAHLONEGA, May 24 .- With the pleasant spring that has opened on us, mining and spring that has opened on us, mining and mill building never has been so active as now. The consolidated Bast and Ivy are running on full time, and as an evidence of the profits accruing, the company has just declared their thirteenth dividend of $4,000, aggregating $52,000 in all, paid in monthly dividends. The Findley is also pushing ahead on the south Findley is also pushing ahead on the south cut, and it is reported is doing well. The Singleton mining company is making very decided improvements on their property, such as building a good and substantial dam across the Yahoola to give them greater power, to which they are going to add ten stamps, making twenty in the new mill, and to use the surplus water to pump the water out of their excavations on the Hamilton vein. The Singleton company will have in all thirty-five stamps in operation this summer. The former yield of this mine justifies them in all these additions, and the outlook riow is as promising as the turn-out has been in the past. Among the new purchases now being improved is the Calhoun mine, once the property of J. C. Calhoun, and long noted for its immense yield of gold during his day, and all these many thousands were taken out which they are going to add ten stamps, makand all these many thousands were taken out of a very small space of ground. For many years this mine has lain idle, until recently years this mine has lain idle, until recently purchased by northern capitalists, who are putting up extensive works of the best improved plans for working the mine to its fullest capacity. A 40 stamp mill, with room for 40 more, is being put up on the banks of the Chesiatee, which will be run with water from that stream. The contractor is entering on the work of putting up the mill this week, and which will be completed within three months and is to be first-class in every respect. The owners of this mine have unbounded confidence in the ultimate results in big yields from it and tradition, with the recent developments go far to confirm their hopes for success. The Columbia, a new mine some two miles from Dahlonega, has a new mill of ten stamps with frame work in for ten additional, just completed, to run by water, which will be started next Monday on an entirely new mine. The owners have made good and extensive improvements in all of which they were encouraged by sufficient developments made in prospecting to warrant all the author that here each of the sinusiant. which they were encouraged by sunicent developments made in prospecting to warrant all the outlay they have made. Results of Co-operation.

Mr. Editor: About one hundred and seven-ty-five members of the grange organization in Elbert county formed themselves into the above association and began business about the 25th of October, 1881, with a capital of only twenty-three hundred and eighty dollars. On the first day of January, 1882, after paying eight per cent interest on the capital stock eight per cent interest on the capital stock, house rent, clerk's hire and all other expenses, house rent, clerk's hire and all other expenses, there was three hundred and ninety one (84-100) dollars net profits for dividends, which gave to the stockholders thirteen per cent dividend on the amount of trade they done, and to members of the grange who held no stock seven per cent on their trade. On January 1st, 1882, the beginning of the second quarter, the capital stock was increased to twenty-five hundred and five dollars, and on the first of April, the end of the second quarter, it was found dred and five dollars, and on the first of April, the end of the second quarter, it was found that, after paying the eight per cent interest on the capital stock, house rent, clerk's hire and every other expense, there were four hundred and sixty dollars for dividends. This gave to stockholders thirteen and one-quarter per cent dividend and to non-stockholders seven and a half per cent on their respective amounts of trade. special Correspondence of The Constitution GRIFFIN, May 26 .- "Hello! there, Mr. correspondent," ejaculated a voice from across the street, an evening or two since, as I was making my way homeward. "Would you like to take a drive around the city?" was the query. "I don't care if I do, as it's about time I was driving at something." No sooner said than we were safely anchored behind a 2:40 ; eed, and away we dashed. In four round we drove out to the residence of Mr. Geo. W. think I am safe in saying that Mr. Clark unterstands exactly what he is about. On arrival we were met at the gate by Mr. Clark, who gave us a very cordial welcome. After informing him of our mission he very kindly consented to show us around the premises which are as neat as a new pin and as inviting as could be desired. To the casual observer there are few places that equal or scarcely none that surpass the suburban retreat of this thrifty old gentleman, who is yet full of life and energy.

THE FOLTRY YAED.

On entering the poultry yard our attention was first directed to a lot of bronze turkeys, like of which I had never seen before so far as size is concerned. I was informed that the gobbler turkeys would weigh between thirty in which they strutted around, in their own estimation would weigh a ton.

"As turkeys are very difficult fowls to raise, as a general thing, what success have you in this line?" I inquired of Mr. Clark.

"Oh, fine, sir. They are as healthy as any fowl we have, end I generally raise all that are hatched. In fact, I will have enough from this spring's hatching to supply the town, if they are not run over by the cars, as nothing else can hurt them. Now, if you will step this way, I will show you my chickens and the manner in which I take care of them."

"These," said Mr. Clark, "are the Plymouth Rock variety; good healthy chickens and easy to raise, and these in this yard are the white Brahmas, a variety known everywhere as being tip-top layers and those," continas being tip-top layers and those," continued he, "you see in the yard just beyond the Brahmas are called black Spanish. Of this variety I can't say much, as I haven't had them long enough to tell of their good or bad cualities."

"What's your idea in having separate yards for the different variety of fowls?" I asked. "Easy enough answered," said he. "To avoid mixing the breed, of course, as I would like to find out which of the three varieties are the best to raise from, and then settle on one variety and mix afterwards, as I may deem best."

Mr. C. showed me something else I never saw before about a poultry yard. He has arranged in order a number of hen nests with a slide door on the side. The nests are porta-ble and whenever an old hen settles down to business the door is fastened and the hen nest and all are carried to other quarters where she will not be troubled or molested in the least by other fowls. Of course, the door is removed at the proper time so she can be fed and watered. Mr. C. is succeeding thus far finely with his chickens and with no mishap will pretty soon have such a poultry yard as would do credit to an East Tennessee poultryman, who has followed the business fo

As we passed out I noticed that about 200 frying size little chickens had quartered themselves in a nicely arranged box for the night's roost. "Now, gentlemen, if satisfied that we middle

Thow, gentlemen, it satisfied that we inhade Georgians can get along without the importation of so much Tennessee poultry into our market I will show you still further around the premises, including first my little truck farm. I said Mr. Clark He has in actual cultivation only about 10 or 12 acres of the different varieties of garden vegetables, from the tender best plant to the hardy numbin an tender beet plant to the hardy pumpkin, an enterprise which is bound to pay, judging from the manner in which he is proceeding. The farm may be summed up as follows: 4

The farm may be summed up as follows: 4 acres in sweet potatoes, which, if an ordinary yield is made, will produce about 800 bushels; 1 acre in Irish potatoes, 200 bushels; ½ acre in onions which will produce, least calculation, 10 barrels, worth $5.00 per barrel, ½ acre peanuts estimated production 25 bushels; 2 acres in cantaloupes and watermelons; 1 acre in early and late cabbage, ½ acre in ribbon cane will bring $200, sold right here by the stalk; 1 acre in strawberries ought to bring at least $100, and numerous other staple and fancy vegetables, which time and space forbids me to mention. In answer to the quesbids me to mention. In answer to the ques tion as to how he would be able to dispose of such a quantity of vegetables around Griffi such a quantity of vegetables around Griffin where most every one has a vegetable garden of their own, he replied: "I know the increasing demand, and have been watching it for some time and have made my calculations accordingly. If, however, I should fail to find a ready sale here, I can easily dispose of the entire crop in Atlanta, where there is always a demand for such things."

Mr. Clark does not confine himself strictly to the two enterprises already mentioned, but has in cultivation outside of those, about two hundred acres in wheat corn, oats, cotton etc., and he expects soon to engage in fancy tock raising.

Upon the whole, I should rate Mr. Clark a first-class man to have in any community.

IS THE BANE
of the present generation. It is for the Cure of this disease and its attendants,
BICK-HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS, DYS-PEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, PILES, etc., that TUTT'S PILLS have gained a world-wide reputation. No Remedy has ever been covered that acts so gently on the digestive organs, giving them vigor to as-similate food. As a natural result, the Nervous System is Braced, the Muscles are Developed, and the Body Robust. Chills and Fever. E. RIVAL, a Planter at Bayou Sare, Le., says: My plantation is in a malarial district. For several years I could not make half a crop on account of billous diseases and chills. I was nearly discouraged when I began the use of TUTT'S PIRLS. The result was marvelous: my laborers soon become hearty and robust, and I have had no further trouble.

They relieve the engorged Liver, cleange the tilood from poissons humors, and cause the bowels to act naturally, without which no one can feel well.

Try this remedy fairly, and you will gain a healthy Bigestion, Vigorous Body, Pure Blood, Strong Nerves, and a Sound Liver.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 18, 1882 ATLANTA, Ga., March 18, 1882.

I have suffered from Scrofula 17 years. The disease being mostly confined to my less and aukles, my shin bones were covered with large Uleers and one mass of rotten firsh, and the odor almost unbearable. All remedies and treatments failed. At last I began taking S S s, continuing for about four months under the supervision of a physician. Previously to taking S S S lat times could scarcely walk about. Now I can walk all day, and I have to thank S. S. S. and it only for my cure.

Some thirty years ago there lived in Montgomery, Ala., a young man who was terribly afflicted with Scrofula. After being treated for a long time by medical profession of this town, with no beneficial results, he commenced taking SSS. After persitently taking it for two months he was cured. Being acquainted, and in constant intercourse with him for twenty years thereafter, I can testify that the disease never made its return.

Being the pets of New Orleans, of course they were greeted with great applause. The manual with numbers was very good—the firing was perfect. Without the numbers the manual was very ragged at times, going from a support to a right shoulder their heads would shake very much, but not having any plumes this did not show much; going from a secure to a carry they would turn the piece with the right hand before grasping it, with the left. Fix and unfix bayonet was not well done; stacking and taking arms was very poor indeed, some of the men would stoop so their heads would be lower than the bayonets. The firings while standing were perfect; in the kneeling if was poor; they would stoop. This could have been avoided had they put their elbow on top of the knee. In fire lying down was very good, but in rising was very poor. In fire lying down I noticed every commander had instructed his men to put their faces on the ground; they should look to the front. "Troops will never be permitted to lie down when the enemy, advancing to the attack, arrives within effective range." Upton. When the men have their faces on the ground and in this blindfolded state they never would know when the enemy are in effectual range; they ought to have a chance to "peep" any way. So much has been written about Dahlonega's gold mines that it is almost superfluous to call attention to the fact that the gold fields are being worked in largely increased numbers, and that gold digging is fast coming to the front rank in the amount of capital invested and of profits resulting.

All eyes are turned towards the farmers and everybody is trying to anticipate the outcome of the fields. It is in all branches of trade and speculation a waiting period-waiting for reports from the growing crops. The winter wheat crop will soon be in a condition to testify for itself.

THERE is an almost Arabian Night fascina, tion about Griffin. Hardly does one sensation in the way of prodigious peach crops, great grape production, and fertile fish ponds appear and disappear than another one comes to take its place. To-day a new Griffin man and industry appears in the person of a great poultry producer. Truly the Griffinites seem to live in a material sort of earthly paradise

Ar present the movement of the two branches of the Presbyterian church is uncertain. An unfortunate and unnecessary resolution passed by the church at Springfield, will if adopted as official, preclude fraternal relation; but we hope, and the hope He then says: "Mr. Stephens now hangs his has a strong basis, that to-day will show that the resolutions referring to "loyalty and rebellion" are not meant to effect the resolution which "mutatis mutandis" both churches have agreed to.

Southern drilling of militia is in many cases defective. The years since the war have demanded and received attention for other things than the pomps, trappings and imitation of the legilamatized murder which we call war. Yet a well trained militia should be an integral part of the state authority, and rumor that committed him to the slightest anything which tends to improve the status of the militia helps discipline. The proceedings of the independent reput lican convention held on Wednesday in Philadelphia show that the trouble within the party in Pennsylvania is really a contest for supremacy between Mr. Blaine and the stalwarts. The movement to upset the Cam- This was done on the ground that the cheaper eron influence is in its breadth and depth a movement to politically destroy all with Such a reduction might temporarily diminish whom the Camerons are allied.

Let us look for evidence of this in the pro ceedings of the convention that put a strong ticket in the field against the Cameron ticket When Senator Mitchell was made temporary chairman he addressed the convention, and in the course of the speech he denounced the president in strong terms for his refusal to enforce any system of civil service reform, He eulogized Garfield, and declared that the administration had reversed the will of the party as expressed in Gar field's nomination. He was, if anything, more pointed in his attacks on the administration than on bossism in his own state. Eulogies of Garfield and denunciations of the spoils system and "son" politics went toshow the spirit of the convention-which was entire the three central resolutions of the adopted platform:

adopted platform:

2. We declare the nomination and election of James A. Garfield to the presidency signified to us the triumph of true reform in the civil service and enlarged liberty of the masses of the republican party in the nomination of candidates and conduct of their party affairs, and we deplore the overwhelming evidence presented to us in Pennsylvania, that the calamity of his assassination has

I followed by the overactor of the control of the c and demanding contributions for party use from public officials. We denounce, severally and col-icctively, the evils and corruptions which accom-pany the conduct of the government as a spoils system, and which are inseparable from such sys-tem; "boss rule" and "machine" control, which, when tamely endured, makes leaders into autocrats and reduces the masses of citizenship into a politi-cal bond.

cal bond.

4. We declare our purpose to take up the work which fell when Garfield fell. We demand in the place of the "spoils system," the reformation of the ivil service by law, so that appointive places therein may be freely open to all fit and industrious citizens, and removals therefrom shall be only for good and sufficient public cause. We demand, instead of the prostitution of the public service to private uses, its recognition as a high and honorable trust, to be administered for the people's benefit; with efficacy, economy and integrity. We demand, instead of the insolence, the proscrip ion and tyrauny of "bossism" and machine rule, the free and conscientious exercise of private judgment in political affairs, and the jaithful discharge by those who assume the representative trusts, of the expressed will of the people.

Colonel Duff of Pittsburg in eccenting the Colonel Duff, of Pittsburg, in accepting the nomination of the convention for lieutenant governor, was even franker still. He said: "By a blunder made at Chicago in giving the minority the vice presidency and the accident of Garfield's death, the minority had obtained "the power of the government, and that fac "tion is using that power for its own purposes. The speaker then declared that he intended to stay with the party, and that he had no doubt which is the party.

Such declarations as these at the end of a ong agitation are plain beyond mistake. The rrepressible conflict in the republican party has come to the surface, and a determined struggle for supremacy between the two factions of which it is made up has been begun. The contest in Pennsylvania is specially in teresting, because of the sharpness with which the lines are drawn; but the same internal strife is taking form in every other state that the republicans hope to control. All the bitterness of family quarrel is found in it wher ever it appears, and it nowhere presents any opportunities for a friendly settlement. Each de seems to have inscribed on its banners supremacy or death. Blaine has no terms to offer to Arthur or Grant or Logan or Conkling or Cameron, and he will accept none from them. The campaign of 1884 may now

MR. WILLINGHAM AND MR. STEPHENS For years and years Mr. Willingham, of the Free Press, has been a devoted follower of Mr. Stephens. For many years he has been fighting the organized democracy, and his paper is recognized as the leading independent paper of the state. It is the foremost paper in the support of Dr. Felton, and is published at his ome. So much by way of preface.

In the last issue of the Free Press Mr. Wil ngham distinctly and squarely says that he annot support Mr. Stephens in view of his last letter aligning himself with the organized democracy and stating that he will run only as the candidate of the organized con vention. Part of the paper is filled with the heartiest indorsements of Mr. Stephens. The other part, written after Mr. Stephens's letter was printed, is against him. The editor says Owing to recent events our paper is a little nixed on the gubernatorial question. We should cancel a good deal of reading matter if e could have the space occupied otherwise.' candidacy alone upon the action of the convention of July 19th. Of course the platform ipon which he will be placed will be denunciatory of the independents, and as an independent we cannot follow a banner upon which we are so denounced, however much we love and admire Mr. Stephens." This is the only consistent and manly course for the coalitionists to take. ## SOME OBJECTIONS TO MR. STEPHENS BXAMINED.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Macon Telegraph, which has a knack of discovering evidences of conspiracy and traces of bossism in the front yards of various prominent democrats, announces, at considerable length, that the democratic party of Georgia will not do well to nominate Mr. Stephens for the office of governor. The reasons which form the basis of our contemporary's objection to Mr. Stephens as the democratic candidate for governor are given at some length, and these re propose to examine carefully and impartially. The article of the Telegraph is too lengthy for reproduction here, but we do not propose to give our contemporary an opportunity to say that we have stated its reasons unfairly.

The first reason the Telegraph gives is, that notwithstanding Mr. Stephens's letter, in which he repudiates the coalition of republicans and independents and announces that under no circumstances will he antagonize the organized democracy, his candidacy comes in questionable shape. His name had not been announced in the press and had not been publicly connected with the gubernatorial nomination in Georgia, "until the memorable race between Farrow and Colquitt as to which should reach Washington first and offer 'him the position." With respect to the memorable race." Mr. Stephens declares that Governor Colquitt never offered him the position, and he has repudiated, as it deserved. the offer of Farrow and other members of the coalition. The point to this "reason" of the Telegraph is that Mr. Stephens's name has ot been, until recently, widely advertised as possible democratic candidate, therefore his candidacy come in questionable shape.' It is hardly necessary to multiply words to show that this "reason" is no reason at all.

The second reason offered by our contemporary is that "the nomination of Mr. tephens, under the circumstances, would be an open confession that troubles, schisms and divisions existed within the party which could only be allayed and healed by the magic of his name and influence in the lead." And why, pray? The Telegraph itself says there are no troubles and divisions in the democratic ranks, and our own information convinces us that there has never been more per fect harmony in the party. How, then, 'under the circumstances," would the nomnation of Mr. Stephens be "an open confession" of the existence of things which really have no existence? The logic of our contem porary seems to be lost in a maze of wholly naginary objections.

The third reason given by the Telegraph for its opposition to the nomination of Mr. Stephens is that "there is reason to suspect that this effort to nominate Mr. Stephens is the inspiration of bossism, a rule which the democratic party should not submit to." With respect to this statement, which is the chief argument employed by the coalition organs against the democratic party, it may be said that the nearest approach to democratic bossism of which we have any knowledge is to be seen and felt in the dictatorial spirit which finds free and frequent vent in the editorial colamns of our esteemed contemporary. The implied charge that Mr. Stephens is to be used as a tool by certain democratic bosses to place Governor Colquitt and General Gordon in the senate, is not likely to gain currency or to have any weight among the people of Georgia, who are familiar with the strong individuality of Mr. Stephens, and who know his hatred of everything that smacks of trickery. It will be left to the representatives of the people of Georgia, in convention as sembled, to say whether Mr. Stephens, with no ambition but to serve his state and his party, has consented to become the creature of "bosses," real or imaginary. The convention can easily dispose of Mr. Stephens by not nominating him, and it ill becomes any democratic journal to cast aspersions upon the attitude of a distinguished democrat who is not a; candidate in the ordinary sense of that term, but who has merely announced his willingness to serve his party if his services are needed.

The fourth reason offered by the Telegraph for opposing Mr. Stephens, is that he has expressly declared that will not be a partisan governor. "The democratic party of Georgia," says our contemporary, "demands a partisan governor," and this amazing statement is followed up by an argument the purport of which is that a non-partisan executive is one who gives his "opponents and adversaries power and occasion to override the principles of the party to which he belongs and to destroy its organization;" and the conclusion is that it will not be proper to nominate Mr. Stephens. who would be a non-partisan governor, because "the democratic party of Georgia is not prepared to divide with its enemies anything that it has fairly won in a political contes before the people." We doubt if any of our readers have ever seen a patriotic sentiment so grossly misinterpreted. It has been the chief boast of the democratic party since Georgia was wrested from the control of alien adventurers that the affairs of the state have been administered in a non-partisan spirit; that all classes and races have had equal opportunity to reap the benefits of democrati rule, and to profit by an economic and a just administration of the laws. The democratic party cannot afford now, with all the respon sibilities of a tremendous political problem upon its shoulders, to nominate and elect a governor who will carry the spirit of partisanship into the executive office. The fifth reason of the Telegraph is that "Mr. Stephens offers no pledge as to the responsibiliprobable candidate offer a surer pledge? He been spent in the service of his people-a according to our esteemed contemporary, no person is entitled to the democratic nomination who is not the head of a large and ineresting family.

The sixth reason why the Telegraph opposes Mr. Stephens is because his candidacy is "indorsed enthusiastically by all of the elements opposed to the democratic party of Georgia," and because "Arthur's organ, the National Republican, the New York Tribune and the organs of the republican party abroad and in Georgia find son to sound a jubilee over it." The enthusiasm to which our contemporary alludes was based solely upon the hope and supposition that Mr. Stephens would accept the proffered indorsement of the coalition and thus seriously embarrass the democratic party. But now that he has distinctly, and in terms repudiated the coalitionists by refusing to be their candidate under any circumstances-now that he has given independentism a black eye by declaring that whatever party reform is necessary should proceed within the organization-the organs will sing another and a different tune. But it is a matter of indifference whether the organs denounce Mr. Stephens or praise him. He has announced his position; he is an or ganized democrat; he is opposed to the coa lition and to the independents, and he i keenly alive to the necessity of party harmo ny. If he is nominated by the convention, well and good; if some one else is nominated well and good. THE CONSTITUTION is of the opinion that Mr. Stephens ought to be nominated, and unless those who oppose him in behalf of other candidate, unknown and unnamed, can advance more reasonable objec tions than those which we have just examined. he will be the next governor of Georgia

This, at least, is the outlook now. EDITOR GORHAM is about to revise his opinion of Mr. Stephens. It has long been known that there is a melancholy side to politics.

BROTHER HANSON, of the Macon Telegraph, is ndidate for a place on the tariff commission Very well. Brother Hanson is a good man. If he gets on the commission, we trust he will bear in mind that the cotton-planters of Georgia are not making as large profits as the cotton manufacturers These cotton planters, we have been told, form a large part of our population.

An excellent opportunity now offers for Dr. Felon to catch on to the roller-chair and become a mble democrat. To-DAY the first number of the Evening Herald, which is published by the Herald Publishing Co. will make its appearance under the management of Mr. Sam W. Small and Mr. Howard Williams. The Herald is to be an experiment in the way of cheapness, and we doubt not it will be successful. It i to be issued in connection with the Sunday Gazet. It may be remarked in passing that a roller-chair can hold a good deal of wisdom, experience and statesmanship. There is room in the executive office of Georgia for the roller-chair. Our esteemed contemporary is mistaken when i says that the democratic party of Georgia wants artisan governor. On the contrary the party pro oses to furnish the state with a governor who wil mote the peace and prosperity of all classes and aces. The democrats of Georgia have more im ortant questions to settle than the filling of a few ffices and rewarding a few strikers here and there

We want no partisanship in the executive chair. THE roller-chair of the venerable Georgia states nan is as heavy as the trucks of a coal car. It has crushed out the coalition and mangled indepen

THE GEORGIA RAILROAD CASE. The Argument of the Injunction Case Against the Railroad Commission.

Thursday the trial of the case of the Georgia ilroad vs. the ranroad commission of Georgia was ommenced at Macon. The court met at 9:30 clock in the room of Judge Simmons in the court ouse in Macon. Judge Lawson, of Eatonton, beore opening the case stated that he was treasurer of the Eatonton railroad which railroad was leased to the Central railroad and banking company. That all the duties required of him were simply to redollars per annum from the Central railroad and distribute it to the stockholders of the Eatonton railroad, but that he received compensation therefor. He had really until the preceding day thought very little about the case, but in coming from Eatonton he had concluded that possibly there might be some doubt about his qualifications to preside, on account of the fact that he was connected with the Eatonton road. If he had thought of the matter in time he would have sent the railroad authorities to another judge. While all of the attorneys stated their entire confidence in Judge Simmons, and their willingness to have him sit under such circumstances in a case that they were representing, it transpired that as the state was a party the attorney general felt that he had no right to waive any objections which might be raised to the proceeding. Judge Lawson then stated that he could not preside, but felt that he had no right to abrogate the order of injunction already issued as that would be unthe railroads and through no fault of theirs, but would turn the case over to any judge whom the counsel might desire. General Lawton and Colonel Cummings, attorneys for the railroad and for Mr. Wadley, after some consulta tion, decided to request Judge Simmons, who was then holding court in the same building, to hear the motion. Judge Simmons, upon adjourning court, agreed to do so, provided Judge Lawson would sit in his stead the next day.

At twelve o'clock the bill of complaint filed by he Georgia Railroad and Banking company and Villiam M. Wadley, lessee therefor, against James M. Smith, Campbell Wallace and L. N. Tram nell, railroad commissioners of the state of Georgia mell, railroad commissioners of the state of Georgia, and Clifford Anderson, attorney general, came up. It charged that the act of 1879 creating the commission was unconstitutional, and also claimed that the Georgia railroad and banking company, under a charter granted in 1833, was entitled to charge 50 centsyper hundred pounds for every fifty miles for freight, and 5 cents per mile for passengers, and that the railroad commissioners had no right to prescribe rates. They also claimed that the bill should be heard in a court of equity. They claimed that they had the right under their charter to lease the privilege of hauling freights and passengers to any person or corporation, and that the commissioners had no right to make any rates over their road, or hey had the right total privilege of hauling freights and passengers to any person or corporation, and that the commissioners had no right to make any rates over their road, or to attempt to enforce them. The counsel for the commission then read the answer of the commissioners, in which they denied that the Geor, is railroad had any right to lease out the right to collect tolls on freights, as the language of their charter specially stated that the only privilege which they had a right to farm out was that of collecting tolls from passengers. The commissioners also denied that they had ever threatened to put into effect on the Georgia road, or that they had ever put into effect, any such rates. That they had never made any specific tariff for the Georgia railroad put had made one for all the roads the state of Georgia and upon that any specific tariff for the Georgia railroad put had made one for all the roads in the state of Georgia and upon that standard tariff had based the charges necessary to make different tariffs for different railroads. That the Georgia railroad had never been threatened by them, and consequently had no right in a court of equity, and that, furthermore, under the code of Georgia a judge could not grant any bill of restraint against the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the commissioners as they were not a court of the court of th Georgia a judge could not grant any bill of restraint against the commissioners as they were not a court but merely acting as agents of the legislature in carrying out the law, and on these last grounds the commissioners demurred to the bill of the complainants. As the railroad had complained that the ratesgiven by the commissioners in circular 20 and 21 were unreasonable and unjust, the commissioners stated several circumstances to prove the justice of their rates. Among others they showed that the Georgia railroad cempany carried a barrel of flour from Atlanta to Augusta for three cents a barrel when it was carried from Cincinnati to Charleston, but that the Georgia railroad charged an Atlanta miller forty-two cents a barrel for hauling the same freight, and that even by circular 20 the road now receives 28 cents a barrel from an Atlanta miller forhauling the same freight. They show that under the rates of circular 20 the unjust discriminations heretofore practiced against Georgia millers, corn growers and dealers was to a conthat under the rates of circular 20 the unjust discriminations heretofore practiced against Georgia millers, corn growers and deal-rs was to a considerable extent abated and at the some time the railroad company was permitted to charge a very much higher rate than they are now receiving of their own volition out of the rates made by the Southern railway and steamship association and Green line, of which the Georgia railroad was a party. They forther showed that the Georgia railroad and banking company was now deciaring a dividend of eleven per cent per annum on its stock, that they had never before declared more than eight per cent, and ordinarily not over seven, and that even at the diminished rate under circular No. 20 the differences to the Georgia railroad in flour hauled would be only $25,000, and that this would only make a difference of onehalf of one per cent in the dividends and that accordingly under the operations of circular 20 the Georgia railroad could declare 10½ per cent dividends per annum. They also filed a cross bill in their answer demanding that Mr. Wm. M. Wadley and C. H. Phinizy, the president of the Georgia railroad company, show that Wadley was the actual lessee of the road, and that he was not merely, as they believed, the representative of the Central railroad company and of the Louisville and Nashville company. The object of the cross bill was to find out positively who did lease the Georgia railroad. If the Central railroad company had leased it and Mr. Wadley was merely their representative then they held that the lease was in defiance of the constitution of the state which expressly prohibits any railroad company from leasing another railroad by which competition is lessened. Colonel Cummings and General Lawton, attorneys for the road, declined to answer the cross bill and filed a demurrer to the answer of the commissioners. Upon this the case was to be called. Judge Simmons adjourned until three o'clock. The original restraining order was granted by Judge Lawson and the provisions of the circulars have not been enforced on the Georgia railroad yet. The commissioners filed a cross bill in their answer and demurred to the original bill because there was no case against them. To this cross bill and demurrer the railroad company demurred.

The argument was opened at three o'clock by

The argument was opened at three o'clock by Colonel J. B. Cummings, of Augusta, who occupied about two hours. Colonel P. L. Mynatt, of Atlanta, counsel for the commissioners, replied in an argument of the same length. The court adjourned at 7:30 p.m., to meet yesterday morning, when ex-Govern or Smith, chairman of the railroad commission, and Hon. Clifford Anderson, attorney-general, were expected to appear for the commissioners, and General A. R. Lawton was to speak for the railroad. The decision will be made in the case in a few days.

THE GEORGIA RAILROAD CHARTER.

The charter of the Georgia railroad and The charter of the Georgia railroad and banking company, was originally granted for thirty-six years and expired in 1869, but it has been continued ears and expired in 1869, but it has been continued in sufferance by consent of the legislature, and there is no fear that the charter will be forfeited as there is no such efforteing made by the commissioners or the attorney-eneral. The question really is whether the Georgia railroad is under the control of the legislature is accordance with the act of 1863 and the provisions of the constitution of 1877, or whether it has a right in a present the second of the constitution of 1877, or whether it has ions of the constitution of 1877, or whether it has the right in p-rpetuity to charge the retes granted it fifty years ago. If it comes under the law of 1863 and the constitution of 1877, the commission can fix the rates. This is the main point and there is no uneasiness felt by the railroad authorities or any one else as to any forfeiture of the charter.

THE DAY DREAM.

Mylittle love sits in the shade Beneath the climbing roses. Beneath the climbing roses. Andgravely sews in a half dream The dainty measures of her seam Untfl the twilight closes.

I needs must gaze, though on her cheek The bashful roses quiver— She is so modest, simple, sweet, That I, poor pligrim, at her feet Would fain adore forever.

A heavenly peace dwells in her heart; Her love is yet half duty. Serene and serious, still and quaint, She's partly woman, partly saint, This Presbyterian beauty.

Can I fulfill those maiden dreams In some imperfect fashion?
I am no hero, but I know
I love you dear! the rest I throw Upon your sweet compassion.

What the Malley Boys are Trying to Prove as to the Whereabouts of Jennie Cramer.

New Haven, May 26.—May Jane Clark was the first witness called. She testified that she saw a young lady near Savin Rock between 6 and 7 p.m. on August 4th. "My mother and my sister were with me," the witness said. "My sister remarked, 'What a pretty girl.' Her face was very pale. Her hair was dark and banged. The young lady looked very modest. She wore a white dress, a light hat sat on the back of her head. What drew my attention was the upper part of the waist. It sat on the back of her head. What drew my attention was the upper part of the waist. It was a yoke waist laced. It looked to me as though it was the only covering for the shoulders and the arms. I saw the dead girl's clothing at West Haven, and I think it was the same. Miss Cramer's picture strongly resembles the young lady seen by me on that her."

HORSES FOOT BADLY CUT.

Macon, Ga., August 1, 1881.—Dear Sir: I cheerfully bear testimony to the wonderful healing qualities of Sanodine, and recommend it as a medicine for sores. My horse had one of his hind feet badly halter cast. Three applications of Sanodine made a cure. Respectfully,

To the Citizens of Atlanta and Vicinity. It having come to our knowledge that certain parties handling an inferior Vapor Stove and trying to palm it off on this community as an improved Hull Vapor Cook Stove, we take this public manner to brand all such reports as falsehoods, whereas the said stove is comparatively a new one, having been before the public but a short time, this being the first season the burner has been used, and whoever buys ene of them buys an experiment, as an experience of fifteen years has convinced us that these burners have to be long and thoroughly tested before they can be pronounced a success. a success.

The Hull Vapor Stove Company never have

The Hull Vapor Stove Company never have had to resort to the nefarious practice of sell-ing their stoves on the reputation of some other stove. We stand on our own merits, and it is all we ask of our competitors.

Frederick C. King was next called. He testified that he was a clerk at the Bradford Point house in August last. He saw Walter Malley and a lady there Friday evening, August 5th, at a quarter past nme o'clock. He was positive of the time, for he looked at the clock. He had been qut riding. He was not there when they came, but the hostler said they came in a buggy. After they had gone he saw their names in a hotel register.

THE REGISTER LOOKED AT.

The register was produced. It bore the following entries:

"Friday, August 5th, 1881.—W. E. Malley, New Haven, extra supper; Miss A. Douglass, New York; George B. Ansonia, carried to Saturday; O. A. Hawley, Ansonia, carried to Saturday; W. H. Randall, Ansonia, carried to Saturday; J. Cramer."

A GREAT INVENTION, Furthermore, we inserted an advertisement in two of the daily papers notifying the pub-lic of our removal from No. 5 Forsyth street to 27 South Broad street. Under one of our Saturday; W. H. Randall, Ansonia, carried to Saturday; E. H. Hotchkiss, Ansonia, carried to Saturday; J. Cramer," and the words, "W. E. Malley, New Haven; Miss A. Douglass, New York; J. Cramer," and the words, "Carried to Saturday," seem to be written in a careless, flowing hand, with a backward tendency in the "J. Cramer." The names "Clark, Hawley, Rendall and Hotchkiss" are scratched. "Hawley, Randall and Hotchkiss" are cin the same handwriting. The entries are made at the bottom of the page. Mr. King said that the first two names were written by Waiter Malley. The four following names were entered on Saturday by mistake, and were afterward transferred to their proper place under date of Saturday, August 6. The name, "J. Cramer," he thought, was written there by some visitor long after the finding of the body.

The witness was questioned particularly concerning a conversation with Benjaman F. Brady at Newtown, Conn. [Brady was a witness for the prosecution. He alleged that King tried to bribe him, and that he urged him to visit the Malley boys at the jail, saying that they wanted to see him.] He said that Brady and himself were employed at Hawley & Sanford's hotel at Newtown. Brady was a hostler and he was a hotel clerk. "About two weeks after Brady's discharge," he said, "he came to me and said that he wanted some private conversation with me, He was somewhat intoxicated. He said that if I would accept a proposition that he would make, I could clear $150. I told him to go ahead and state it. He wanted me to approach Mr. Malley, Sr., in a quiet way, when in the same handwriting and the said that if I would accept a proposition that he would make, I could clear $150. ## THE COTTON MARKET

CONSTITUTION OFFICE, Atlanta, May 26, 1882.

New York-During the early part of the week the market moved under a quiet and steady feeling, but, contrary to general belief, continued a down ward course up to Tuesday's close resulting in a decline of 15@20 points for the months. On Wedn day, however, the market was subject to a moderate reaction which continued throughout the day following with increasing strength and more favorable indications for a further immediate advance At the opening this morning the general appearance of the market was somewhat subdued, and during the morning remained quiet and steady at lower prices. Before noon was reached the tone weakened considerably and the decline that followed reduced the months about 3@10 points since yesterday's close. The spot market has been comparatively quiet this week and for several days pa has been bearing downward. At the close to-day middlings was held at 121/c.

Net receipts for the week ending to-day 13,510 bales, against 19,939 bales last week and agains 36,590 bales for the corresponding week last year; exports for the week 24,156 bales; same time last year 67,081 bales; stock 471,043 bales; same time last year 594,117 bales.

One of these cases—Tisby Biram, colored—was removed to the hospital, from 61 Humphries street, last night. The other two cases—Green Lee and Jane Bonner, colored—were removed to the hospital to-day, from the outskirts of the first ward, near the corner of Fair and Roach streets. None of these persons had ever been successfully vacefinated. The source of infection in both instances is clearly traceable to infected persons who have been permitted to lodge in these houses before their discovery by the inspectors, and who refused to give their place of abode when apprehended.

THE MALLON SOCIETY.

An Interesting Meeting Yesterday Evening at the Righ School Building.

The annual meeting of the Mallon society, composed of the alumni of the girls' high school, was held at the high school building at 5 o'clock yesterday evening. There was a very full attendance of the ex-members of the school, and a most interesting programme of exercises was rendered. Mrs. Thomas Smillie presided and Miss McConnell acted as secretary. The programme consisted of essays recitations and music. An essay, "Our Schools," by Miss Anna Fuller, and an essay by Miss Zipporah Bagby, entitled "Our Golden Path," were particularly good. The programme was as follows:

1. Music—Instrumental duet—Miss Bertha and 1. Music—Instrumental duet—Miss Bertha and

9. Recitation—Pride of Battery B.—Miss Mollie Bostiek.

10. Essay—Our Golden Path—Miss Zipporah

Bagby.

11. Old Lang Sync—Alumnas,
Mrs. Thomas Smillig, President.
Mrs. Belle McConnell, Secretary.

At the conclusion of the rendition of the programme the following list of officers for the ensuing year was elected: President Mrs. Dr. Swift; vice-president, Miss Mollie Daniel; secretary, Miss Eanna Muse; executive com-mittee, Miss Anna Fuller, Miss Bertha Weis-burg, Mrs. H. V. Barrow, Miss Carrie Randall, Miss Zimorah Barby Miss Zipporah Bagby.

SOME ATLANTA PEOPLE.

As They are Shown to People Out of Town by a Cor-respondent in the Augusta News. It is believed the senate would vote Senator Hili a year's salary if he was a member of the senate when he died. This would be very grateful, as he dies a poor man, leaving only $10,000 insurance, a dies a poor man, leaving only $10,000 insurance, a mortgaged farm in south Georgia, some encumbered land in Mississippi and a home on Peachtree street not all paid for. Of his children, Ben Jr., is worth about $30,000 and has an independent income; Charles has a plantation and a house in Athens and his wife has just succeeded to $30,000; Dr. Ridley is well to do, and has a fine and growing practice; Mrs. Edgar Thompson has about $20,000 worth of property. If Senator Hill dies before the senate adjoints, keep your eye on General Henry R. Jackson, of Savannah, and count Governor Colquitt, the senatorial race. If he dies after that, keep your eye on Colquitt, Uoke Smith, who began the practice of law here an awkward boy of 18 years, in 1872, without a friend in the city, paid taxes last year on $37,000 city property, has anded $10,000 worth since. He has made within the year three $10,400 evidicts in damage suits, getting a third of each for his fee.

The Tile club will publish a special issue of Harper's Weekly for Christmas, that will exceed in artistic richness anything ever done in this country. Joe Harris has written for it a sketch called "Mingo," in which he contrasts the negro and the "cracker' dialect. He was paid $300 for it, and Abbey is preparing the illustrations, Joe's friends predict that his "cracker' dialect will be as successful as his negro dialect."

AND THEN TALKS ABOUT THE

A Written Story in Which the Old Surveyor Declare That He Wrote the Will—What Sheriff Per-, ke*son and Messrs Scarratt and Cummings Say-A Pull Expose.

Since the indictment of Messrs, Cummings, Blacker, Scarratt and Thigpen, charged with forging the will of John Broad, the publis has been anxious to know whether or not the paper is a genuine or spurious document, and THE CONSTITUTION reporters have therefore been on the qui vive to gather together all developments in the case. Late day before yesterday afternoon a member of the reportorial staff met Colonei E. F. Hoge, one of the attorneys for the heirs, who are endeavoring to have the will set aside, and asked him: "What is the status of the case to-day?"

"Oh, it could not be better for us," plied, "the will is unquestionably a forgery and we will be able to establish that fact beyond a doubt. The will will be set aside and a conviction will follow upon the indictment. There will be no lack of evidence. In fact, one of the indicted four has given the whole thing away."

"Which one?" "Thispen He has told all about it."
"Well, I should like to hear the story.
Can't you tell me what he says, or tell me where I can find him, and I will interrogate him."

"I don't know where he is just now, but he "I don't know where he is just now, but he will be at my office to-morrow morning, and I will give you a chance to talk to him."

At the appointed hour the reporter was on hand. As he entered the door of Colonel Hoge's office, he saw Mr. Thigpen bending over a desk, busily engaged in writing. Colonel Hoge advanced, and after cordially greeting the scribe, said:
"Please call after a while. Mr. Thigpen is when it is finished."

The reporter took the drop and descended the stairway leading to Whitehall, but just as he stepped upon the pavement he was halted by Sheriff Perkerson, who asked:
"Have you been in Colonel Hoge's office."
"Yes," was the reporter's reply as he called to mind the fact that Mr. Thigpen had not been arrested!

been arrested.
"Is Thigpen there?"!
"I don't know. Why?"
"Well, because."

"Because why?"
"None of your business."
"Has Mr. Thigpen been arrested yet?"

"No."
"Are you going to arrest him?"
"Of course I am, but I am sorry for the old man. He can't give bond, and I guess he will have to go to jail. I think, though, that the attorneys who are prosecuting the case will secure his release upon a nominal bond in consideration of a statement I hear he has made."
"Did you have any trouble in making the arrests?"

"No. I have arrested only two though.
When I arrested Fred Cumming's he signed the bond in a school boy's hand and said:
'Does that fist look like counterfeiting Broad's signature?' Mr. Scarrat gave bond without any trouble. He seemed to think hard of me for arresting him, and asked me to let him take the bond and have it filled out and return it the next morning, but I declined to do so.'
"You haven't arrested Blacker yet?"
"No, and I can't tell whether he has skip-

"No, and I can't tell whether he has skipped the country or is hiding out; but—"
Just here the reporter left the sheriff, and ascending the stairway again, entered Colonel Hoge's office, from whose hand he received the statement which is published herewith. As the colonel relinquished the paper he said: "That is Thigpen's statement. It is his own hand writing and was made in the presence of Acting Solicitor Dorsey, Mr. Alex King, Mr. J. E. Hill and myself."

The statement covered three pages of legal cap, and was written in a large, bold, clear hand. It read:

Mr. J. E. Hill and myself."

The statement covered three pages of legal cap, and was written in a large, bold, clear hand It read:

J, B. F. Thigpen, of Atlanta, county of Fulton, State of Georgia: In view of the situation and pending circumstances concerning the Broad will case, do, of my own free will and without any coercion, make this statement, giving the facts as I know them to exist. I am greatly humilitated to confess to the fact that I wrote the will purporting to be the last will and testament of John Broad, during the month of July, A. D. 1881, at the instance and dictation of one Captain Blacker, who came to my house about 11 o'clock p.m., and pretended to be a detective, and that he wanted me to write a will as though it had been written at the dictation of John Broad, some time before the death of Mrs. Broad, and wherever I had forgotten the names of any of the relatives of Mr. Broad, or did not know what sort of property to make a bequest of and how much. Then and in these events he had a memoranda to which he kept refering, and toid both what to bequeath and to whom to give said bequests. On said evening he brought a bottle of whisky and paid to me 75 cents as he said for my trouble in writing it, and after writing until about the hour of three or four o'clock a.m., he then promised to give me five dollars if I would put my name to the forged will. I did so, and he took it and started towards his home, but he came by my house early next morning and came on and bought another bottle of whisky and toid, me he would call on Sunday following. When I saw how careless he was in showing and take me over to his house to get me to write a deed for him and make a map for him of some land given to his will be me to write a meed for him and make a map for him of some land given to his will be mean and said he would not go back on me, but that he would have signers to the paper and make it a good will. I was then greatly distressed and earnestly begged him to return the paper to me and let me destroy it. He reporter sought Mr. Scarratt. He was industriously working with his books in Messrs. Jack & Holland's counting room, and greeted the reporter with a pleasant smile.

"What do you think of the Broad will case?" asked the reporter, without any delay.

"Oh, I don't know. I guess it will turn out all right. I am ready for trial when the case is called," was Mr. Scarratt's reply.

"I thought maybe you would like to make a statement of your connection with the affair and have called to see you for that purpose."

"Well, I am obliged for your kindness, but I have nothing to say just now. At the right time I will be ready. I am now writing a statement of my connection with the will and at the right time will have it finished, and then you can publish it."

"Did you know that one of the parties who have been indicted has made a written statement of the whole affair?"

"No: which one?" "Excuse me, but I am not at liberty to "Weil, I don't care which one. That will is a genuine one, and the more they investi-gate, the more they will find it out," and af-ter thus delivering himself, Mr. Scarratt returned to his work.

Next the reporter visited Mr. Cummings.
He was at his saloon, at the corner of Broad and Hunter streets, and in his shirt-sleeves was standing behind the counter. After shaking hands the reporter said:

"Did you know that Thigpen has squeeled?" turned to his work.

The reporter recounted Thigpen's story and asked:
"What have you to say?"
"Nothing, except that it is false."
"Then the will is not a forgery?"
"Not that I know of. I have always and still believe that it is a genuine wilf. I was away from home last summer and when I came back I received the anonymous letter offering to find the will for $500. I took the letter to my attorney, Mr. Hoke Smith, and the will was produced after the advertisement appeared in The Constitution. If it is a forgery I know nothing about it."
